THE INTERNATIONAL SCULPTURE CENTER RECEIVES GRANT AWARD FROM THE JOHNSON ART AND EDUCATION FOUNDATION
Grant for Will Support Hiring of Publisher to ISC Staff

(Hamilton, NJ) The International Sculpture Center (ISC) announced that it has received a generous 3-year grant from the Johnson Art and Education Foundation in support of the hiring of a Publisher to the ISC staff.

This grant in the amount of $150,000 over a three-year period will allow the International Sculpture Center to create a new strategic leadership opportunity for publications with a commitment to a united perspective. This will include the hiring of a Publisher, a website and magazine redesign, as well as a strategic design for digital publications.

"I am pleased that the Johnson Art and Education Foundation recognizes the necessity of creating a more cohesive approach in response to this ever-changing publishing landscape," said Johannah Hutchison, ISC Executive Director. "As publisher of the only non-profit magazine dedicated to the field of sculpture, it is important to maintain our position in the field amidst new emerging technologies and to have the ISC's publications reflect the organization's purpose and mission."

The Publisher position will be posted in late 2015. Interviews will be conducted by a special committee which will include Executive Director, members of the Board, and members of the ISC Communications and Advertising Committees.

The International Sculpture Center (ISC) is a member-supported, nonprofit organization founded in 1960 to champion the creation and understanding of sculpture and its unique, vital contribution to society. Members include sculptors, collectors, patrons, architects, developers, journalists, curators, historians, critics, educators, foundries, galleries, and museums—anyone with an interest in and commitment to the field of sculpture.
